2012 Programme of Workshops

A continuation of the London series.

Saturday 21st January
15th Century Italian Dance

Hazel Dennison

Here is a rare opportunity to learn dances from our earliest known European sources, the treatises of Italian dancing masters Domenico and Ebreo c.1450. They present unique choreographies, sophisticated bassadanze, celebratory balli with mixed measure, dance dramas and games. They reflect a significant time in which courts and republics sought to transform themselves in displays of magnificence and erudition, embodying past cultures and challenging innovation

Saturday 18th February
and
Saturday 28th April
Renaissance Dance

Anne Daye

The variety and riches of dancing c.1600 will be presented through close study of a balletto by Caroso or Negri, alongside a selection of dances from England and France.

Saturday 31st March

Moira Goff

Dancing at the French Court around 1700

This workshop will focus on the basic step vocabulary of baroque dance, with a particular emphasis on style and technique appropriate to the ballroom. It is aimed at those with some experience of baroque dance, although beginners will be made welcome.

The workshop will include study of some sequences from Guillaume-Louis Pecour's extremely popular ballroom duet Aimable Vainqueur (1701).

Beginners, preferably with some dance experience, are very welcome at all workshops. Those with experience of dance of the period being presented will also find much to interest and challenge them.

The cost of each workshop is £28 for non members of the Society and £25 for members. Those booking for all four workshops can claim a discount of £5 off the total cost.

DOLMETSCH HISTORICAL DANCE SOCIETY

Registered Charity No. 270896

The Society promotes teaching, practice and research in European early dance and its context, and is particularly concerned with the surviving sources for dance between 1400 and 1900. DHDS produces books and music CDs. It publishes a journal which provides an international forum for dance research scholars and organises conferences, the proceedings of which are also published.
